1. Technical Field The present invention relates to a method of manufacturing a semiconductor device.
2. Related Art An electro-optic device using a semiconductor light-emitting element or a semiconductor light-receiving element has been proposed as an optical sensor. As a method of manufacturing a semiconductor light-emitting element or a semiconductor light-receiving element, for example, a method of forming a semiconductor layer on a substrate, patterning the semiconductor layer to form a semiconductor light-emitting element or a semiconductor light-receiving element, and the like have been proposed. In addition, in manufacturing a semiconductor light-emitting element or a semiconductor light-receiving element, after a plurality of semiconductor layers are stacked, a protection film is formed, and after the protection film is patterned, a semiconductor light-emitting element or a semiconductor light-receiving element is formed by removing the protection film. As a method of forming a semiconductor light-emitting element, for example, a method of forming a semiconductor layer by a thin film formation method, such as a sputtering method, on a substrate, forming a light-emitting layer by performing a thin film formation method, such as a sputtering method, on the semiconductor layer, forming a film to cover the light-emitting layer by a thin film formation method, such as a CVD method, and the like are known. In addition, in the thin film formation method, a resist mask is formed on the semiconductor layer and the light-emitting layer, the semiconductor layer and the light-emitting layer are dry etched, and the resist mask is removed. Moreover, for example, a method of forming a semiconductor
